

English as a Second Language Certificate Endorsement

The growing importance of the English languages for national and international education, industry, commerce, and political affairs has created a wide demand for English teachers all over the globe. The Murray State program has been designed in accordance with international TESOL guidelines to provide enrolled students with essential theoretical foundations and practical experience of the highest quality. The program is housed in the Department of English and Philosophy and also features faculty and resources of the Department of Foreign Languages and the English as a Second Language Program.

Murray State University TESOL program is pleased to announce web-based course offerings for Kentucky teachers wishing to earn an ESL certificate endorsement. Education professionals who hold Kentucky teaching certification may seek an ESL certificate endorsement through courses offered by the Murray State University MA in TESOL program.
